FIVE LODGES ENTER IN DEDICATION OF MASONIC TEMPLE

Committees Will Show Public Through The Entire Building

LODGE OFFICERS EXPECTED HERE

Prominent Speakers Locally To Talk At Night Session

Five lodges will be represented at the dedication of the new Masonic Temple on Monday afternoon. Austinville, Trinity, Decatur and Hartselle officers have been invited to attend the ceremonies beginning immediately following the hours of public inspection from one to three o'clock.

Approximately 225 are expected to attend the banquet which will be served at 6:30 o'clock in the spacious dining room on the first floor of the building.

It is anticipated that several grand lodge officers will be in attendance at the meeting of the four branches of the Masonic order and that they will be called upon to make addresses. Chas. E. Sittson, committeeman who has been busy with arrangements, stated today that he had had no acceptance from grand lodge officers and could not say definitely if they will attend.

Included in the speakers program following the banquet are: Hon. Fred Wall, Athens, Rev. James D. Hunter, Rev. R. T. Tyler, Judge L. P. Troup and Judge Osceola Kyle.

Committees have been appointed to conduct the public on an inspection of the building. From the hours of one to three Monday afternoon the public will be shown through the corridor of the first floor to the banquet hall, which probably has the largest seating capacity of any similar auditorium in the cities. The room is electrically equipped with lights and fans with ample ventilation on three sides.

From the banquet hall the public will be conducted to the second floor which houses the assembly hall of Albany Lodge 491 and Mizpah Chapter No. 19 O. E. S. This large room has been completed with two rows of seats for spectators of lodge work or executive lodge sessions. The walls are finished in white while the floor covering is of green carpeting. The fixtures are of mahogany. From this room the public will be shown to the third floor to the quarters of Decatur Chapter No. 38 R. A. M. and DeMolay Commandery No. 14 K. T. This room, somewhat larger than the Blue Lodge hall is similar in finish, though the fixtures are in cherry. Invitation has been extended the public to take advantage at these hours to inspect the building which has been completed recently at a cost of approximately $10,000, housing the Albany Masonic bodies in one of the best equipped temples in the state.

DUTY OUTLINED FOR COUNCIL

Round-up Is Planned For Tonight At 7 At Cooper-Wells Field

At a meeting of the Chief Rangers and Leaders of the Pioneer Clubs of Albany and Hartselle Friday night at the "Y" the Pioneer Council of the two cities was formed, to be composed of the Leaders, Chief Rangers and one member-at-large of each club.

Eugene Speer, Chief Ranger of the Roger Williams club of the First Baptist church, Albany, was elected president; Wilson Elliott of the "Raccoon" John Calvin club of Hartselle, vice-president; Theron Jackson of the John Calvin club of the Westminster Presbyterian church, secretary and Hershell McKelvey, of the Walter Scott club of the Christian church, treasurer. F. W. Gosline, leader of the Roger Williams club will act as advisor to the president of the council. The council will meet monthly on the fourth Friday night of each month. The major activities of the council will be to discuss club problems, arrange for city-wide activities, such as base ball and other tournaments, hikes; developing a city-wide staff of experts in such activities as swimming, nature study, woodcraft, camp craft, Bible study, etc., Pioneer round-ups. This council will also be the clearing house for inter-club contests.

The leaders' council will continue as a separate unit in the administration of the Pioneer club work and will plan to meet for an hour prior to each monthly meeting of the city-wide Pioneer council.

On Friday night, State Boys' Work Secretary Lewis, who is co-operating with Secretary Randolph in the Pioneer Institute gave a short explanation to the council members of the relation of the Pioneer work to the entire program of the Y. M. C. A. program. He explained how the "Y" now takes a boy at 9 years of age, and through the Friendly Indians program for boys 9-11 years; the Pioneer program for boys 12-14; the Comrade, Hi-Y and Employed Boys' programs for boys 15-19, a boy is given a continuous, co-ordinated, progressive, graded program of religious education. The work is all closely integrated with the work of the churches.

Mr. Lewis was the guest and speaker of the Hartselle Pioneer club Friday afternoon.

While in Morgan county, Mr. Lewis is also visiting the Ki-Y camp site and closing out the work of the Albany, Hartselle and Decatur Hi-Y clubs. With the opening of the camp season and with the splendid equipment and leadership available at Ki-Y camp, it is hoped that large numbers of boys of the three cities will avail themselves of the advantages offered. Parents and boys who are interested should phone Albany 85, or call at the Y and see Mr. Randolph, who will personally supervise the camps this year.

All Pioneers are urged to be on time for the round-up tonight at 7 o'clock at Cooper-Wells Field.

ONE WOMAN IS RELEASED TODAY

Solicitor Will Offer "Vital Testimony" at Officer's Trial

(Associated Press) BIRMINGHAM Ala., May 29—Authorities today continued to search for "another woman" whom they believe witnessed the slaying of John B. Jones, state officer Tuesday night by Byron Shirley and Dewey Barrett, deputies sheriff.

Mrs. Lucille Scott apprehended yesterday is under bond of $1,000 as a material witness. She was closeted with Solicitor Jim Davis for several hours, after coming here from Montgomery. The Solicitor said she would give vital testimony at the trial of Shirley and Barrett who are under indictment on a charge of first degree murder. It has been reported by other witnesses that Mr. Scott occupied the Shirley car when Jones was shot. Officers said Mrs. Scott wept at mention of Shirley's name.

Miss Beatrice Campbell was quizzed by Solicitor Davis in connection with a report that she also occupied the Shirley car, but the young woman satisfied the solicitor that she was not a member of the party.

(Associated Press) MOBILE, Ala., May 29—Aubrey Boyles, deposed United States district attorney, today was indicted by a federal grand jury on a charge of possessing and transporting liquor. He immediately surrendered and made bond in the sum of $1,000.

MOBILE, Ala., May 29.—The federal court grand jury, which adjourned Wednesday and submitted a report that was ordered sealed, returned one true bill, presumably against United States District Attorney Aubrey Boyles, and made recommendations that the entire office of the district attorney at Mobile be reorganized, with the exception of the clerical board.

Before the report was read, announcement was made that District Attorney Boyles had resigned and that N. E. Ervin to act until an appointment is made by President Coolidge.

Boyles resigned, following a conference with Special District Attorney Rush, assigned here by the department of justice at Washington, who arrived here today.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE. (Copyright, 1926, by The Star Co., For Albany-Decatur Daily).

In offering Mr. Brisbane's daily editorials The Albany-Decatur Daily does not necessarily concur with his opinions, but offers them as the sentiments of the highest paid editorial writer in this county.

THE famous champagne bath case in New York drags it weary way. Miss Joyce Hawley, lady in the tub admitted to the court yesterday that she was in the tub, and had taken three or four drinks of the champagne in the tub as she bathed in it, "also some drinks from other sources." "It got me drunk," the lady, weeping, told the court. And then she sprained her ankle trying to run away, and she had not been paid the $700 "promised her for the stunt." On the whole, the party was a failure in her opinion.

THE curious thing is that—the man responsible is prosecuted for perjury and for violating the prohibition law. Nobody says anything

PLANS ARE LAID FOR 'CARNIVAL'

Funds Will Be Raised To Defray Expenses of Movement

Miss Richardson, who had charge of the children's work during the recent Central Methodist church revival, will be employed by the community board to take charge of the community houses on Grant street, east, and East Market street it was announced Saturday.

The community houses, established sometime ago by women of the Twin Cities, have been very successful in interesting children of the community in play, work and spiritual advancement.

At a meeting of the Community Board of which Mrs. Thomas Hodson, is chairman, plans were perfected for a "community carnival" to be given on the Y. M. C. A. lawn on June 4, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. The proceeds will be used to pay for the trained social service worker, who will devote all of her time to the development of the movement in Albany and Decatur.

Each church affiliated with the city federation of missionary societies will participate in the carnival, each church having a booth. The Albany-Decatur Grotto band has donated its services for the occasion.

Truck Turns Over, But Driver Escapes

Willie Gibson escaped with minor injuries early today when a truck, which he was driving, turned over near Russellville, according to word received here today.

Gibson was said to have been driving a truck belonging to Tom Montgomery, which was a part of a "fleet" being operated by the Albany Transfer company to move a printing establishment from Courtland to Haleyville. The machine was said to have been damaged badly, but Gibson was believed to have suffered only a badly bruised arm and other minor injuries. Details of the accident had not been received here today.

AMERICAN 6 UP AND 5 TO PLAY

Morning Round Shows Supremacy of Invader's Golf

(Associated Press) MUIRFIELD, Scotland, May 29.—Jess Sweetser, of New York, today was crowned king of amateur golf in the British Isles.

He won the amateur championship easily, six up and five to play in the 96th hole final, from Alexander Simpson, his young Scottish competitor.

Thus, for the first time in history, a native-born and bred American becomes the holder of Great Britain's most prized golfing trophy.

Sweetser was born in Caldwell county, Kentucky. For a time during the morning round, it looked as if Sweetser might have a real fight on his hands, and possibly fail to grasp the coveted honor. When he emerged four up from the morning round, however, it was apparent that he had taken the measure of his opponent, who was playing in his first international tournament.

When the afternoon round was fairly underway, it was seemingly a question only as to how many holes Simpson would be able to hold out before he cracked under the strain. The crack came at the 27th hole when he did everything a golfer should not do, scoring a bad seven. Meanwhile the former Yale star, keeping his head, went along the even tenor of his golfing way and played at his best.

The Scotchman went from bad to worse and the end came at the 31st hole. Sweetser's victory was given cheers by the sportsmanlike crowd and some American "rah-rah's" were heard from his fellow-countrymen in the big gallery, estimated at 6,000, that followed the match.

Strother Elected Special Treasurer

Plans are proceeding toward commencement of work on the new church building for Central Baptist and actual work will begin, according to present plans, within the next two weeks.

The church elected E. W. Strother as special treasurer for the building fund, which is already being paid in toward this building, and he will have charge for the church of all money coming in for this fund, and disbursing the same. He has requested that everyone making a contribution for the building fund will be sure to specify same, and put their names with their contribution in order to keep accurately his books on this matter.

Usual services will be held at the church Sunday, the pastor preaching at the regular hours, 11 and 7:30. Sunday school and other organizations meet at usual times.

Cherry Was Convicted of Having Shot His Wife To Death

(Associated Press) TUSKEGEE, Ala., May 29.—John T. Cherry, road overseer, under sentence of death for the murder of his wife, was found dead in his cell at the county jail today.

Authorities said he hanged himself with an improvised rope made from strips torn from a mattress. The death of Cherry ends one of the most colorful criminal cases in this section of Alabama.

The state charged at the trial that Cherry shot his wife to death through a window, while she was preparing his dinner.

Mrs. Cherry was slain October 16, last year.

BATSON VERDICT MAY BE SET ASIDE

One of Jurors Said To Be English Subject, Disqualified

(Associated Press) BIRMINGHAM, May 29.—Because one of the jurors hearing the impeachment trial of S. R. Batson is an English subject and disqualified by law, the recent verdict of impeachment may be set aside and the former member of the Jefferson County board of revenue re-instated.

This latest development in the sensational impeachment case was brought to light today in a petition to set the verdict aside.

The juror in question is said to be P. W. Davis, of Ensley, born in Birmingham, England.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 29.—John S. Harris warden of Kilby prison, today was appointed by Governor Brandon to fill the vacancy on the Jefferson County board of revenue to succeed S. R. Batson, who was automatically removed from office when a jury in the Jefferson County circuit court found him guilty of wilful neglect of duty.

Wishes Folks Could Get Out and See

"I have notice that your paper has been talking of roads lately," said an observer today from the rural sections, "and I wish you could just go with me sometime just to see what condition Morgan County roads are really in." The speaker continued his verbal attack upon the conditions of roads throughout the county and believed that people of the cities who cast votes in county elections should take trips into the county before they cast votes for road builders and overseers.

Then they break the news to her mother and receive her blessing.

CHAPTER XXII

At five o'clock of an afternoon in early June, some four years later, a victoria, drawn by a handsome pair of matched bays and piloted over by an ancient negro in livery, turned from Congress Avenue into the impressive sweep of drive which encircles the state Capitol's massive granite pile.

Two gentlemen in the white trousers and dark coats which masculinity affects in that latitude and at that hour had turned into the Capitol grounds almost at the same time as the victoria. They were on foot, and the level of the terraced walk, some feet higher than the drive, threw them for a moment almost face to face with the occupant of the carriage. She glanced up as they came opposite, and bowed to the taller and more manly native of the two men—native by the careless half droop of his broad shoulders and the inevitable leanness of his movements.

"This climate does grow charming," his companion observed, as the carriage passed on and the gentlemen replaced their bananas, "and they manage somehow to keep willowy and poetic looking—don't run to bone and fat and muscle the way our Northern women do. By the way, who was the—er—" He indicated casually the quarter in which the victoria had disappeared.

Stephen Renfro gave him a surprised glance. "You don't know? But I dare say you wouldn't. That's the lady who is to be your hostess tonight—Mrs. Gregory Cochran, mistress of the 'mansion' there."

"I see. . . Is she not to be your hostess as well?" Renfro did not answer at once. "No. . . The fact is, the two families are not on the best of terms—some little rancor over politics. As you know, we left no stone unturned to defeat Cochran in both campaigns, and now that I'm up for the office myself. . ."

He shrugged. "Of course, it means nothing to me one way or the other, but it's been hard on Sue. Society here—rather revolves around the Capitol clique, you know. The 'Governor's lady' sets the pace—provided, she's the sort of person you can."

"And this Mrs. Cochran is that sort of person?" Again his informant hesitated. He even frowned a little. "Why, the fact is she was just a little country school-teacher when Cochran took her up and married her—nobody could imagine why. Her mother-in-law hates her like poison, but she would eat dirt rather than see her son's wife make a faux pas of any kind. So—she's rather managed to get hold of the reins socially."

"Hum! She must be clever!" An annoyed line appeared again between Renfro's handsome brows. "As to that, no doubt you'll have a chance to judge for yourself—you're probably the set victim of the evening."

The lady under discussion, meanwhile, had entered the Capitol, proceeded through the great lobby, and stepped into an elevator. She made her way past numerous attendants in Confederate gray, with each of whom she had a bowing and smiling acquaintance, and tapped finally at the door of the Governor's private secretary. She was admitted by the secretary's secretary, who informed her that the reception room was still three quarters full.

The door into the Governor's private office opened and the secretary came out. Mrs. Gregory Cochran had a brief glimpse of her husband at the big mahogany desk, listening as patiently as might be to what the man opposite had to say—which was evidently a good deal. The secretary, a handsome and very obliging young man, smiled as he repeated her case—still humorous—to him.

"I'll see," he said and disappeared. A few minutes later he threw open the door and indicated that she might enter.

Cochran advanced to meet her, his eyes traveling rather guiltily to the clock on the wall. The office was supposed to close at five.

"Come, you know you promised to drive with me before dinner."

Cochran smiled and nodded to the secretary, who vanished instantly in the direction of the reception room. "I'm ready to call it a day," he confessed with a sigh of relief, as he kissed the interruption, and reached for his hat and coat. "And I do thank God every morning when I rise up and every night when I go to bed that at least I have a wife who knows when not to talk! How these men who have to listen to other people's grievances and crazy ideas all day and then go home to a brainless chatterbox at night manage to stay sane is more than I can see."

They drove home in a silence which held unbroken until they were in their own apartment at the so-called "mansion." The latter was a huge, old-fashioned and none too comfortable abode, which Molly had contrived to make fairly habitable by redecorating some of the rooms, closing others, and having the plumbing and heating arrangements generally overhauled.

She tarried downstairs for a little while with Mrs. Parker, who had been transplanted long since to the entire supervision of the "mansion." The Mowbrays' train had been delayed, and as the nominee and his wife were the guests in the evening, it was necessary to shift the dinner hour from seven to seven thirty. A sleight-of-hand trick which took some maneuvering on the part of even such a master strategist as Mrs. Parker.

When Molly arrived abovestairs, Cochran was already getting out his dinner clothes.

Fifteen minutes later he stood in the door of her room, fussling with an obstreperous collar button. "By the way," he said, "I noticed in the evening papers that Arthur Bancroft's in town."

Molly, mirror in hand, twisted round in her chair until she got the angle desired on her back hair, and tucked in another pin or two before she repeated absently, "Bancroft? Who's Arthur Bancroft?"

"He's a very astute man and a very able lawyer from the East. He represents some of the heaviest investors of outside capital in this state—has considerable interests himself. But I dare say you wouldn't know him—he hasn't been down since the famous 'Republic' fiasco."

"Bancroft. . . Molly repeated, still absently. "I wonder if he's the man who's staying with the Daltons?"

"I shouldn't be surprised. He and Dalton are old college friends, I believe."

"In that case," Molly announced rather dubiously, "he's coming here for dinner tonight."

There was a slight pause. Then, "How did you—happen to invite him?"

"Why, Linda Dalton called me up this morning to say that she had an unexpected guest and she'd either have to cancel their engagement or—bring him along. I don't know that she mentioned his name, even. Linda's helped me out of so many tight places she feels she can do those things occasionally. . ."

Molly put down the mirror and gave the matter all of a sudden her undivided attention. "You don't suppose it could have been he I saw with Stephen Renfro this afternoon—tall, slight, hair graying around the edges?"

"Probably."

"What does that mean?" she asked, lifting a buffer from the table and passing it thoughtfully over her already unimpeachable nails.

Cochran's brows wrinkled in a half-resentful, half-amused smile. "It means, I take it, that his clients are prepared to spend another million or so on this coming election. I guess it's gone pretty hard with them these last four years—having to loosen up and pay their fines and honest-to-God taxes just like anybody else."

"I hope I haven't made a mistake in inviting him here?" Molly said hesitantly.

"Not at all. He has the reputation of being a gentleman. I believe, in spite of his dubious connections."

Alabama Shows An Increase In Lumber

(Associated Press)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 29.—Alabama showed an increased in lumber produced in 1925 over 1924 of over 20,000 feet measured in thousand feet board measure. In so doing the state ranked tenth among the 23 or more states named in lumber cut.

This information was learned from data collected by the United States department of commerce in its annual census of forest products, in co-operation with the department of agriculture.

In the states there were 608 mills reporting, each sawing 5,000,000 feet or more in either 1924 or 1925. There was an increase throughout the country of from 14,514,092 feet in 1924 to 16,102,652 feet in 1925. This was an increase of eleven per cent.

The mills to which these statistics relate are distributed throughout 26 states and practically all important timber regions are represented. These mills contribute 40.4 per cent of the total cut of all mills reporting for 1924.

In Alabama there were 24 mills that reported, estimated upon a scale of thousand feet board measure, the figure for 1925 in lumber cut was 368,874 feet, while in 1924 the report shows that 348,913 was the figure. This is an increase of 20,161 feet.

The state department of forestry in its annual report showed a similar gain but requested that better care be taken of the state forests in order that timber production in the future may not be reduced.

Moore To Succeed Dr. Stuart July 1

(Associated Press)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 29.—Plans for the reception of Dr. Arthur J. Moore to the First Methodist church, one of the largest pulpits here are under way now. Dr. Moore will take up his new duties on July 1.

Dr. Moore comes to the First Methodist church, South, here to succeed the late Dr. George R. Stuart who died while pastor of the church following one of the longest tenures ever known in Southern Methodism.

The new pastor comes here from the Travis Park Methodist church of San Antonio Texas. He is said to be the same type minister as the late Dr. Stuart. Dr. Moore is a well known evangelist, as was Dr. Stuart before entering the ministry.

Dr. Moore is to fill the place of one of Birmingham's most beloved pastors as Dr. George Stuart was a man of high esteem in Birmingham. He also was ranked as one of the leading ministers in Southern Methodism.

The new pastor is said to be fully equipped to take up the duties of his new pulpit.

TODAY 12 Years Ago

From the Daily of
May 29, 1914

The Redpath Chautauqua will open here next week.

Felix M. Robertson, Scoutmaster, announces a hike for Boy Scouts to Belle Mina neighborhood on June 2.

The Hotel Lyons company has bought from J. E. Penney the 100-foot lot next to the hotel for a consideration of $1,200. An addition to the hotel is planned.

Miss Ruth Hartung will leave tomorrow for Tuscaloosa, where she will attend commencement at the University.

The plan used in Morgan county last election, when the candidates, in one group, visited all of the precincts in the county, was good. The Daily hopes that some such arrangement can be made again this year.

The warfare waged between officers of the law and violators of the law, with occasional fatal results, is regrettable, but, in the ordinary course of events, is something not entirely unexpected. The situation in Birmingham, where brother officers appear to be arrayed against each other is even more regrettable.

Everybody has gone to the creeks down Hartselle way, so says the Hartselle chief-of-police. We do not feel that they should be scored for turning loose business for a short space of time, in fact we should like to accompany them on their journey.

With four reputed millionaires in the Senate race and a fifth very well fixed, we predict that the Senate race will be quite warm before the curtain announces the end of political turmoil in August. Our selection can at least be free and independent when he gets to Washington, we can't miss on that bet.

BUILDING THE BEE LINE BEYOND CULLMAN TO BIRMINGHAM

Reports that the state highway department is building construction camps on the Bee Line sections below Cullman are extremely gratifying to the local public and to the Tennessee Valley in general. The Bee Line highway is recognized as the main trunk line of transportation in this section and people in the Twin Cities have never exactly sanctioned the building of other highways in the state until this roadway is open, permanently repaired or paved so that transportation may not be halted at any time.

Of course the Bee Line will not be open until the great bridge across the Tennessee River at this point is completed, but the state highway department is doing all in its power to have that structure complete at the expiration of the contract date, which is reputed to be around January 1, 1927.

It is a duty of the state of Alabama that the Bee Line highway be kept open at all times, we owe it to the states to the north of us, we certainly value their commerce, interstate commerce is one of the liveliest items in the business life of any state.

The Bee Line must be kept open from the Tennessee line to its final stretch into the southern limits of the state, it is worth it to Tennessee and Kentucky, doubly worth it to Alabama.

JUNIOR CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BANQUET SHOULD BE ATTENDED BY BUSINESS MEN

The Junior Chamber of Commerce banquet Tuesday evening, at which time the present industrial situation will be laid before the older business men of the Twin Cities, should be an event of paramount importance in the minds of all local people.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce has been conducting negotiations with the chiefs of a number of industrial plants, these negotiations having progressed to a stage where the financial aid of all citizens will be necessary to see them to a successful conclusion.

On first consideration it would appear that a proposition of this nature should be more appealing to the older men than to the younger ones, the supposition being that the older residents, having accumulated more property than the younger ones, have an opportunity for greater immediate gain. There may be some merit in that view, at sight must not be lost of the fact that the young men of today will be the older men of tomorrow. In the long run, community advancement means more to them than to their fathers and their older brothers.

The plans the Juniors will present Tuesday evening, however, are deserving of the consideration of all. Their successful termination would mean much to Albany-Decatur. Opportunity is knocking at the door of Albany-Decatur now. It is up to citizens of these cities whether or not they shall open the door.

FLORIDA WILL TEST CONSTITUTIONALITY OF THE NEW FEDERAL INHERITANCE TAX
Alabamians will be interested in the fate of litigation by means of which Florida intends to test the constitutionality of the new federal inheritance tax. Florida and Alabama are among the very few states which have no inheritance tax, but, under the provisions of the new federal law, the residents of these states would be placed in the position of having to pay the charge regardless of what might be the individual preferences of the state.

The federal law provides that a large percentage of the amounts paid into state treasuries for inheritance taxes may be deducted from the amount paid into the federal treasury. It is apparent that those states, under the new law, which have no inheritance tax themselves simply miss that source of revenue, inasmuch as the money not paid to the state goes to the government.

The Florida fight will be watched with interest in Alabama because, if Alabama is unable to show the unconstitutionality of the congressional act, or to make congress realize the law is an invasion of state's rights, then Alabama is faced by no other alternative than to pass an inheritance tax law of her own.

Chambers county farmer wires his place to keep the candidates out. W. E. McKissac, Chambers county farmer, has prepared himself, according to the LaFayette Sun, for the "open season on candidates."

Mr. McKissac is quoted as saying he has "put his place under wire and candidates expecting to see him will take their own risk in climbing the fence. Mr. McKissac has placed a heavy plank at the bottom of the fence, a strand of field fence on top of the plank and two strands of barbed wire on top. He left no gate and he is on the inside. Candidates seeing Mr. McKissac will do it at their own risk. It is not known whether he has bull dogs tied or not."

Candidates in Chambers county must be pestiferous people. Here in Morgan county, the candidates will get a more cordial reception, we hope. If they do not, The Daily knows of one office-seeker who will be bitterly disappointed.

A veteran campaigner complained the other day that he was getting thin.

"But that's alright," he added as his face brightened, "I'll be campaigning soon and give me three or four weeks among my friends in the rural sections and I'll get all of that weight back and then some."

JASPER PAYS TOO MUCH INTEREST ON HER BOND ISSUE, THE EAGLE COMPLAINS

The Jasper Mountain Eagle is disturbed because of the high rate of interest Jasper pays for her municipal issues. Jasper, the Eagle reports, has been paying eight per cent for money borrowed by that progressive Walker county city. Indeed, that is a question which should be of interest there.

"Is a condition peculiar to Alabama the cause? If so, that condition should be removed," the Eagle adds.

The Twin Cities are considerably more fortunate than Jasper in the matter of sales of bonds. Par now is being obtained for the issues and the interest rate is much lower.

The better position of Albany and Decatur, however, has not been attained without the display of a good deal of common sense and business acumen on behalf of the men charged with the responsibility of these sales. There have been some legal provisions of state laws in Alabama which made the bonds of Alabama municipalities less desirable, in some respects, than the bonds of cities in other states. The Daily is informed, but it is believed that the greater part of these restrictions have been removed.

There was a time, too, when Alabama cities did not pay sufficient attention to the matter of keeping up the interest payments on their bonds. Purchasers were forced to extend themselves to collect the interest payments very frequently. That period appears now to be a thing of the past, and the financial horizon is much brighter for all Alabama cities.

The fact that Albany and Decatur are able to demand a fair price for their issues, and pay only a fair rate of interest is very gratifying to our citizens.

A TRAIN OF THOUGHTS for the Sabbath and Other Days

(By J. E. Blair)

They talk about "tottering veterans" and that's all right. But there were at least two confederate veterans at the confederate reunion just closed at Birmingham who did not totter! Not a bit of it. And they marched the whole length of the greatest parade ever staged in the South. Who were they? Well, one was Rev. J. P. Funk, 81, Smyrna, Tenn., and the other A. J. Carver, 84, of 1101 Greenwood Avenue, Nashville, Tenn. Those two men, because they walked throughout the parade and because A. J. Carver's left arm had been shot off in the Civil war, attracted more favorable attention than any two other men in the parade! Take a look at Mr. Carver. He came out of the parade, just as he went into it, gay, laughing and shaking his good arm at the people. At a cafeteria the night after the parade Mr. Carver prodded the writer with his nub of a left arm. He looked like he was worth following up. In the first place Mr. Carver was the father of 20 children—"all in Christ's way or else in His presence." One of the "boys" is the venerable Dr. W. O. Carver, of the Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville, learned professor, author of books on the life of Christ, and promoter of foreign missionary enterprises. "By their fruits ye shall know them" says the Bible.

"My wife and I owned a plow, animal apiece but no more when just after the war we were married."

I always arose before day and plowed one of the animals until breakfast time. My wife fed the other animal in the meantime, and when we had eaten breakfast, I went at once to plowing the other animal. I ate dinner sitting on the plow beam. It went on that way for almost a score of years. I was working 14 hours per day."

Today, partly from labor and partly from the rise in farm values, Mr. Carver is not a pauper, although the educated say, a score of children! At the age of 72, Mr. Carver won a corn prize for raising more corn on an acre of ground, than any other person in four states! At 72 mind you, and with only one arm, since 1865!

Mr. Carver's exploit in winning the corn prize at 72, was only one of a thousand wins. And he don't give God the credit, just to be "nice." He says God has been personally conducting his life. And no one will doubt the marching Confederate veteran either. Mr. Carver is ten thousand times ten thousand a better answer as to God's existence and God's way of doing, than all the "arguments" on earth! Mr. Carver says "God leads just as long as you will to go his way."

What are you going to do about believing him? He has been too "successful" to make a joke of; he raised too much corn at 72, for anybody to doubt his intelligence—and he is too busy now working his truck farm, for anybody to say he is a "dreamer"—so what is left but to believe that the 84-year-old marcher at the last Confederate reunion knows whereof he speaks?

THE NEED OF HEEDING HINDERING WAYS

Through the Home, School and Church Good Habits
May Be Implanted in Boys and Girls, Thereby
Improving the Nation's Health.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Former Commissioner of Health, New York City,
United States Senator from New York.

DR. COPELAND

If we had the power to create the habits of boys and girls, and to control the habits of the grown-ups, we could change the history of the world.

The other day my good friend, Dr. Frank Crane, said:

"The water of a river digs the channel and then the channel contains and restricts the water."

"A man makes his habits, and then the habits control and restrict the man."

The water made the channel by following the line of least resistance and, as Dr. Crane says, the man makes his habits the same way.

We are essentially creatures of habit. We go to bed, get up, eat our meals, go to work, slave or play, just as habit drives us. Sunday is a hard day for some of us, because it interferes with the regular routine. But what we do on Sunday, too, is wholly a matter of habit.

The word "habit" has come to have a questionable sound. We speak of bad drugs as "habit-forming." Uncontrolled appetites are attributed to habits.

Of course, there are good habits, too. But whether we are good or bad, we are controlled by our habits. What we call the "social life" is responsible for a lot of our habits. It teaches us to stay up late. It cultivates a love for rich food. It creates a desire for unseasonable clothing.

Custom compels us to eat what we do not want and to eat when we are not hungry. We cannot resist the social habit.

Modern business is housed in ill-ventilated structures and, after a while, we become indifferent to the quality of the air we breathe. The demands of the office foster the "quick lunch" evil.

The combination of late hours and overwork results in fatigue. In consequence, we ride home instead of walking in the open.

The hard working farmer and his harder working wife cannot get away for a day, because habit keeps them at the grind. The teacher feels guilty if she runs away from her papers for an evening's recreation.

Health depends so much on habit that I wish we might study the problem, determine what are good and what are bad habits, and then begin a campaign of education of the children. There is hope that through the home, the school, the church and the community activities, we may create good habits and a love for the manner of life good habits demand.

Health is vital to happiness and prosperity. It depends largely on the habits of the individual. The formation of habits is subject to regulation in early life. Is it not worth while to give heed to a subject of so great importance?

Henry Ford concludes his editorial as follows:

"The farmers can go to Chile for their nitrates as in the past, and the electro-chemical industry can go to Canada or Norway, as it has been doing, and the water power of the Tennessee river can go to waste until the power combine gets ready to exploit its use." If the people had the power they would do something about that Muscle Shoals scandal—at least the farmers would do something. But they have no way of doing it, not having much to do with government."

UNIVERSITY of Wisconsin chemists announce a new local anesthetic better than cocaine, developed in three years of hard work by Professor S. M. McIlvain, helped by Ralph Jones. The new drug is two and a half times as powerful as cocaine, with only one tenth of its poisonous quality, and is said to produce surface anesthesia with hyperdermic injection.

It ought to be a blessing to dentists and to surgeons in minor operations. That is really important news.

The original discovery of anesthesia, made in America only recently, by the way, was more important to the comfort of the human race, perhaps than any other one discovery.

SOME people still read books. Ten thousand visit New York's big public library every day, and seven thousand actually read. The library lent 9,000,000 books last year. Brooklyn's library nearly 6,000,000. Reading does not keep up with the population since the radio has come in, but a few do read, and some of them think, and that is hopeful.

PRESIDENT Domergue warns the world that if there is a smash in French finance something else will smash with it.

That is impossible. The nations wouldn't consent. And in any case the size of standing armies no longer counts. A flock of flying machines would enable one country to defy half a dozen other countries. And they can be built quickly.

SIR C. G. WALPOLE, one of Britain's greatest jurists, killed himself yesterday at the age of eighty-eight. Death would have saved him the trouble had he waited a little. But the aged man grew impatient.

In Greece and Rome old men committed suicide frequently. One distinguished Greek philosopher nearing one hundred, stumbled and fell as he left his class, and killed himself because he thought a man unable to keep his feet should not live any longer.

In those days suicide was a matter of taste and quite respectable.

Helpful Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my teens and I am in love with a young man a few years older than I. He seems to love me, but he goes out with other girls.

Please advise me what to do.

PEGGY.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: Since this young man is not engaged to you it is his privilege to go about with other friends. Peggy, and you must recognize this privilege and not expect a monopoly on this young man's time. Go about with your other friends, too, and don't worry about limiting your friendships until you are engaged.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I'm a girl in my teens and am in love with a young man five years my senior, although I haven't met him.

How may I meet him and gain his love?

SUNSHINE.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: You are asking a difficult question, my dear. While I can suggest a way of arranging an introduction with the young man, I am afraid I can do nothing to help you "gain" his love.

Love is an emotion which must come naturally and of itself. Surely you must know someone who is acquainted with this young man and who will present him? Once he has been introduced and you find that he is interested in you you can invite him to call and then let things take their natural course.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

1. Is it wrong for a girl to call a boy up?

2. What should a girl say when intro- a to a young man?

GLENN.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: 1. It is quite proper for her to telephone a young man to invite him to call, but it is preferable for her to write a short note of invitation.

2. In the first place, my dear, a

A DAILY PROBLEM

In the back of the housekeeper's mind all the time, is the problem—What shall we have for dinner? It's an old story with her. She has faced it every day since she started keeping house. To it she no doubt attributes her first grey hair.

First and foremost the health and well-being of her family have been uppermost in her mind, and the many weary hours she has spent planning the dessert for the luncheons and dinners her family have consumed could be added up, her family would be staggered with the total.

There is an easy way to prevent Mother from this waste of time—which could so profitably be spent at some-thing more pleasant.

ELLENEN WINS SUIT VS. WESTERN UNION

Over 2 Million Given
For Use of Railroad's
Right-of-Way

(Associated Press)
COVINGTON, Ky., May 29—Federal Judge Cochran today handed down a final decree in the suit of the Louisville and Nashville railroad company against the Western Union Telegraph company, allowing the railroad company $2,452,268.18 and interest from February 17, 1926 for the use of railroad's right of way.

Suit was filed in 1912 when the railroads sought to recover from the defendant company for the use of the right-of-way of the railroad company's poles and wires, from the period of time after the expiration of a contract in 1909.

The plaintiff company sought to collect $100 per mile for each year. At the time the matter was referred to John Menzies district clerk of the federal court at Covington, as special master commissioner.

On November 5, 1921, after extended hearings over several years, Commissioner Menzies reported in favor of the Louisville and Nashville rail-

Small To Deliver Two Talks Here

Dr. Sam Small, lecturer from Bob Jones College at Panama City, Fla., will deliver two lectures in these cities using the subject, "The Devil in the schoolhouse." The first lecture will be given May 31 at Decatur high school auditorium and the second at Central Methodist church, June 1. Dr. Small is described as a brilliant lecturer and orator. The time of the lectures has been set for 8 o'clock.

Fifty Percent To Enter Universities

Fifty to sixty per cent of the graduating class of Albany high school will enter colleges and universities next fall, it was estimated today by Superintendent N. F. Greenhill of the Albany school system. Mr. Greenhill declared he did not know in what universities the graduating class would enter, but that he hoped they would stick close to Alabama.

Exceptions to his report were filed in September 1925, Judge Cochran then sustained Commissioner Menzies' findings.

Judge Cochran today entered the final decree.

Judge Wert Back, Much Encouraged

Judge Thomas W. Wert, candidate for attorney general, has returned from one trip into South Alabama, and will leave next week to visit additional counties in the central and southern part of the state. He declared he is very much encouraged by reason of the cordial reception given him by the voters in the counties in which he has visited.

One report received here by friends of Judge Wert was to the effect that voters in every county are lining up in behalf of the local man's candidacy. The report was credited to a man who had visited, in the interest of a candidate in another race, a great many counties in the state. He found much Wert strength in every county he visited.

Sale of Bonds Is Ratified By Council

Morgan Club Girls Write of Meeting

Two Morgan County club girls who are representing this county at the Auburn meeting today wrote the Daily telling of their experiences while at the meeting and expressing their appreciation to the various organizations sending them as delegates. The letter follows:

We, the two Morgan County club girls, who were fortunate enough to get the free trip to Auburn, arrived safely Wednesday afternoon and are having a grand time. We shall think of our leader Miss Sallye Hamilton and the rest of the girls. We wish to express our appreciation and many thanks to the Kiwanians of Albany and Decatur for we feel sure they are responsible for our trip and our good instructor, Miss Hamilton. We girls think the Kiwanis club is one of the best clubs in the state.

Athletics Stop Yankees After 16 Straight Wins; Barons Cop Another; Pelicans Lose

Philadelphia is given the credit of halting the New York Yankee march, stopping that crew of game wreckers after a 16 game spurt that seemed for a time destined to carry that team beyond all existing American league records. However the Yanks were halted yesterday in a twin affair against the Athletics, losing the first game 2-1 and the last 6-5. Lefty Groves and Waite Hoyt tied up in a hurling duel in the first fracas, the Yanks getting 7 hits against the A's four, but the Athletics forged a pair of runs out of their total while the Yanks were able to get around the paths but once.

Cleveland and Chicago lost the other two American circuit games when St. Louis and Detroit managed to get away with verdicts. The Washington Senators, dropping of late, did not play, the rest probably being all it was worth to the Senatorial aged combine. Washington is in sixth place, though only a single point margin stands between third and sixth place.

Over in the National league Cincinnati and Brooklyn continued to win, Cincinnati taking an easy victory from St. Louis when Card hurlers gave up 13 free trips. Brooklyn romped on Philadelphia again 3-2. The Pirates continued to crawl toward the top defeating Chicago 6-5 in 11 innings. Yde and Meadows had difficulty in holding back the Cub outfit, but the bats of the Pirates kept responding and the game was won in the 11th when Glen Wright tripled in the 11th with Hal Rhyne on the

Scout Bulletins

TROOP 17
The meeting opened with the scout oath, the roll was called and showed 22 present. We decided to go on a camp some time next week and almost all of the boys are going. The meeting was turned over to the Fox patrol. Seybourne Lynne gave us a very interesting talk on playing the game straight. They then had a flour blowing contest the winners being Russell Lynne and Bill Alexander. Seybourne Lynne then gave us some setting up exercises. The meeting was closed by the scout oath of allegiance.

TROOP 35

We held our regular meeting Friday night at which time we were favored by a visit from Mr. Quinn.

The meeting was opened by all repeating the Scout oath, then we had roll call and found that the Beaver Patrol had the best attendance.

Douglas Dodd was voted into the troop and two names were brought up to be voted on next meeting night. Now that school is out we are all going to work hard on our tests, civic work and the archery contest.

Every one was requested to meet at the studio next Wednesday morning at five thirty to go fishing.

We closed the meeting with a very solemn ceremony of burning an old flag that we found near the Albany high school building.

Local Baseball Fans To Gather

Decrying the lack of baseball in the Twin Cities this year, local fans will probably meet during the coming week to decide upon ways and means for launching an amateur club. The club would be made up entirely of local players, so far as plans are known at this time. A meeting is planned early in the coming week.

With the return of a number of ball players from college and players taken from the local high schools along with other talent available in the Twin Cities it is believed that a strong combination can be built to represent the two cities.

Dr. Nungester To Preach Sunday

Dr. Nungester who is here visiting relatives will preach at the evening service at First Methodist church, Decatur on Sunday, it was announced by Dr. R. T. Tyler. Dr. Tyler spoke highly of the ability of the visiting pastor and hoped that a large congregation would be present Sunday evening.

North Alabama Conference Contains Six Days of Varied Study and Work

(Associated Press)

ATHENS, Ala., May 29.—The program for the annual conference of the North Alabama Conference Epworth League which convenes here on June 7 contains six days of varied study, recreation and work.

This will be the nineteenth annual conference, the ninth annual assembly and the third annual exposition. Sessions will be held at Athens college here and the theme for the conference will be "Youth for Christ and the Church."

Special rates over all railroads in the state have been granted the assembly. A special train will leave Birmingham on Monday morning, June 7, carrying only delegates to the assembly.

Those in charge of the assembly are urging every pastor or member of the North Alabama Conference, all Conference officers, all officers of the Epworth League Board and all chapter presidents to attend. The expenses of the assembly are small, it is pointed out, and the trip may be taken as a vacation.

Arrangements have been made with Birmingham-Southern college whereby the assembly will not conflict with the summer school which convenes on the same date. Those attending the assembly may enter summer school a week late and no penalty be imposed for it.

All forms of study and recreation are planned for the assembly. A special orchestra will be on hand to render music with several band concerts being on the program also. Many forms of athletics will be supplied and special hours allotted to the assembly authorities said that they realized some of the delegates would be using this as a vacation.

Monday, June 7, the first day the assembly will be taken up most with registration and getting acquainted. Addresses of welcome and entertainment features will open the assembly.

Then on the following day will begin the study periods and the regular program of the assembly. Classes in doctrine, Bible study, church history and polity are among the to be held. From then on the program will settle down to a regular schedule of classes and recreation work with the final day of the assembly coming Saturday. Special entertainment features, however, have been provided for different times the week.

Dr. Roan Leaves For New York

"Extra!-extra! all about the big--"

YOU don't ignore the newsboy when he shouts that at you. It's a promise of news. Your hand goes into your pocket. You want to find out. You'd be a tame sort if you didn't. There's a thrill about news. News is exciting.

News about what? Fires, final scores, murders, political happenings—a hundred things.

Or about a new contrivance called "radio"; or a new model of automobile; a new style in topcoats, or hats, or razors—news!

All of it is news. The news about many things comes to you in the form of advertisements. To miss the advertising is to miss news.

News about the things you use every day, the things you'll buy tomorrow or next month. It is news that you should read to keep yourself well posted about the big and little things of daily life.

Don't skip the advertisements in this newspaper. Advertising is news.

Don't miss the advertisements!
